

A lambda function is a small anonymous function. A lambda function can take any number of arguments but can only have one expression.

Stub is an incomplete version of a function.